An elephant, a waterfall, a tree. For award-winning nature photographer Marsel van Oosten, simplicity is the ultimate form of expression. Through singular subjects and pared-down motifs, he captures the beauty, diversity, and vulnerability of the natural world. This visually stunning volume begins with photographs from Africa before moving through all the continents. The alternations between landscapes and close-ups, color and black-and-white photographs, create a stunning, emotive journey across the planet we call home.

► Masterful images from the only photographer to date to have been named “Wildlife Photographer of the Year,” “International Nature Photographer of the Year,” and “Travel Photographer of the Year”

► For lovers of spectacular nature photography

► A gift with impact: Marsel van Oosten will donate part of the book proceeds to the Canopy Project, which plants trees all over the world
From the secluded mountain hut to the luxury ski chalet, to the resort reaching up to the sky, this unique and aspirational travel book presents the best mountain hotels around the world. Author Martin N. Kunz, an expert in the special hotel industry, shares detailed insider information, as well as thrilling photographs of these stunning mountain locations, from Aspen to the Atlas foothills, from the Himalayas to Machu Picchu. Bonus digital access take readers directly to each featured accommodation, where more pictures, videos, and sometimes even soundtracks, await.

- Breathtaking mountain regions—from Aspen and Machu Picchu to the Atlas Mountains and the Himalayas
- Alpine lodges, chic chalets, boutique hotels, and extraordinary resorts for unique nature experiences
- Detailed information and sensational photos on over 200 pages
- Including the link to the accompanying image recognition app, which provides further features

VULNERABLE

In this stunning compilation of more than 160 images, photographer Olga Michi brings a new kind of portrait photography to endangered ethnic groups around the world. Her striking images seen in Vulnerable, present individuals against a black background, dramatically lit to focus on their dress, accessories, and individual expression.

These indigenous peoples represent some of the most unique cultures in a hyper-globalized world, and an emotional reminder that they are our fellow human beings and singular personalities. And starkly, the rifles, cartridge cases, plastic objects and cell phones that also appear in Michi’s pictures acknowledge the fragility of their way of life.

▸ A reflective and illuminating project from “extreme photographer” Olga Michi

▸ Arresting portraits from remote indigenous cultures

▸ More than 160 collectible photographs of profound impact

There are exactly two black rhinos left in the world, a subspecies of the white rhino, the very last of their kind. In this deeply poignant tribute, photographer Joachim Schmeisser presents these rhinos as well as other wild animals in the Amboseli National Park in Kenya, where Maasai tribespeople ensure that nobody endangers them. With his breathtaking black-and-white images, Schmeisser brings us up close to these extraordinary and endangered creatures, creating a powerful document of nature’s splendor and fragility.

Remarkable, intimate pictures that bring us up close to Africa’s “Big Five”

A tribute and a warning cry, showing some of the most endangered animals on earth
METROPOLITAN LUXURY

The wait is finally over! After the success of his first coffee table book, Interior Design, Eric Kuster presents a new volume of his luxurious interior projects. In Metropolitan Luxury, world-renowned interior designer Eric Kuster presents his latest interior projects, spanning exclusive private apartments, villas, skyline penthouses, and exclusive gyms. This stunning interiors portfolio, like the Dutch designer himself, is defined by its boundless creativity as much as its meticulous attention to detail: properties are custom-designed to the client’s wishes and requirements and leave nothing to chance. From color schemes to fabric choices, to the selection and arrangement of furniture, everything comes together in a harmonious scheme that is always unique, yet unmistakably Eric Kuster.

Eric Kuster has rapidly ascended to the top tier of interior designers, working with a number of prominent clients around the globe. With his label, Metropolitan Luxury, Kuster designs furniture, fabrics, fragrances, and other exclusive products.

Ever heard of the Hanomag Autobahn? L’Œuf électrique or the Stutz Bearcat? If so, you’re a car enthusiast with super specialist knowledge. If not, you are in for a beautiful surprise, 50 times over! In this richly illustrated book, renowned car photographer Michel Zumbrunn captures near-forgotten automobiles. Each of these unique cars is no longer manufactured, either because the manufacturer no longer exists or because the model was literally “lost,” like the Bugatti Brescia found at the bottom of Lake Maggiore after some 75 years.

▶ 50 exquisite classic cars, perfectly staged by photographer Michel Zumbrunn

▶ 50 fascinating stories, recounted by the classic car expert Axel Catton

▶ Cars of the rich and famous, from Marilyn Monroe to Nicholas II, the last Russian Tsar

▶ A treasure trove for car lovers and classic car enthusiasts
One of the most successful car titles of the last decade, The Porsche 911 Book is back with a new format and an irresistible price tag! This must-have Porsche book celebrates the unique history of this iconic sports car from its launch at the IAA 1963 to the present day.

Photography from René Staud, one of the most renowned car photographers, captures every detail of each 911 model variant, honoring the car’s unique and unmistakable design language—inside and out.

What makes dogs so unique? They are the only species that favor the company of humans over their own kind.

A dog looks at us with a deep understanding and empathy perhaps greater than our own. In this charming book of dog photography, Vincent Lagrange records this treasured intimacy with our four-legged friends.

Applying the techniques of portrait photography, which he learned in his youth at his father Marc Lagrange’s studio, he captures our canine counterparts in crisp, perfectly illuminated pictures that allow their own soulful personalities to shine through.

- First book of dog photography by Vincent Lagrange
- Magnificent canine portraits full of tenderness and personality
- Following in the footsteps of bestselling photographer Marc Lagrange
Dogs are only human, aren’t they? This irresistible dog book by Sandra Müller combines refined canine portrait photography with a fun and loving look at our four-legged friends outfitted in different costumes to uncannily reveal their humanlike personalities—whether a giant schnauzer or pug, pedigree dog or characterful cross-breed. For every dog portrait, there is a humorous accompanying text about their chosen outfit. Pug Gisbert, for example, would certainly be a medic in the human world: you only need to call out the vet’s name “Dr. Uwe” and Gisbert is already crazy with excitement.

► 83 dog portraits full of creativity and humor
► Our four-pawed friends seen as human types in a variety of hilarious and astute guises
► A delightful gift book for all dog lovers and dog owners

There is only one bird species that hunts in summer and rears its young in winter: the Emperor Penguin. These extraordinary animals survive the relentless Antarctic climate, braving an average temperature of -49 degrees Celsius, thanks to their special adaptation to the cold, as well as their loving, attentive, and helpful interaction with each other and with their offspring.

For this impressive penguin book, award-winning photographer and physicist, Stefan Christmann, accompanied a penguin colony in Antarctica for 23 months, capturing different stages of their lives. His sensitive images are a beautiful document of penguin behavior, as well as the rugged, hostile ice landscapes they call home.

► 126 images from Wildlife Photographer of the Year winner, Stefan Christmann

► The life of emperor penguins in different phases: from finding a partner to raising young penguins

► Personal experiences showed by the photographer and his insights into the mystical Antarctic winter

What would an animal look like if it were a human? The question is actually a contradiction in terms, and Tein Lucasson’s answer is as humorous as it is creative. With digital photo technology, he combines pet portraits with human poses, celebrating each animal’s unique personality, while drawing on his passion for costume and art history.

Open up Animal and discover a raccoon sporting a sailor’s suit, an aristocratic pig enthroned above a roulette table, and a giraffe grinning in its thick wool sweater.

► A delightful and humourous book for pet and animal lovers
► Features 88 Old Masters’ style animal pictures and a portrait of a shy boy
► Humorous and philosophical texts about different animal characters

The South of France in the Golden ’50s. The sun is shining and palm trees cast jagged shadows on a polished motor purring up the drive to the Grand Hotel. Irish photographer Edward Quinn delighted in these scenes of Côte d’Azur splendor. Like no other, Quinn captured the essence of the Riviera high society, revealing its glamorous social and cultural life with a subtle and fine sense of humor. This new edition of his Riviera Cocktail has all the fabulous and fascinating ingredients of the era: movie stars and starlets, gamblers and musicians, business magnates and faded nobility—captured out and about on the sparkling Riviera and in more intimate moments.

Confinement

During the Covid 19 pandemic and the lockdown many artists were thrown back on themselves and started to work creatively with this unprecedented situation. Shortlist artists from all over the world were asked by the Prix Pictet, the leading award for photography and sustainability, and by British daily newspaper, The Guardian, to show their works from the months of the Corona crisis. The result, Confinement, a complex artistic and cultural portrait of this state of emergency, will remain, when the pandemic itself is history.

A varied examination of 43 photographers with the Corona crisis

Images that will remain in the memory beyond the current situation

With essays by historian Peter Frankopan (The New Silk Roads), as well as by Ugandan novelist Jennifer Nansubuga Makumbi (A Girl is a Body of Water, Kintu, Manchester Happened).
The early life path of Ukraine-born Sergei Polunin was akin to a dancer’s fairytale. A precocious talent. Ballet training in Kiev. Admission to the Royal Ballet School in London at 13. First solo performance at the Royal Ballet at 19. At 20, promotion to the youngest ever principal. Then, at 21, a sudden rupture took place: the superstar Polunin moved on. What could have been the end of an incredible career became another beginning. The dancer met new mentors, went to Russia followed by other countries, conquered fresh audiences and new art forms. Today he is known not only as a dancer and creator of his own productions, but also as an actor and artist.

In this autobiographical book, Polunin presents a stunning selection of photographs from his life and work, but also carries his readers behind the scenes, through his own unique voice sharing the emotional highs and lows of his journey. Along the way, he recounts why he quit alcohol and drugs, why he once took steroids, and the time he laughed so hard on stage that he forgot the dance steps.

- An intimate encounter with the enfant terrible of ballet
- With a comprehensive selection of photos from Polunin’s life on and off stage
- His music video for Hozier’s Take me to Church, shot by David LaChapelle, has 28 million views on YouTube
- With a foreword by Dame Helen Mirren and Albert Watson

The widespread Covid-19 lockdown of Spring and Summer 2020 that had millions of people confined to their homes made for remarkable photographs around the globe. Cities of Silence brings together lockdown pictures from more than 60 cities—all exceptional snapshots of otherwise densely crowded spaces. Free of people, traffic, and much of the habitual advertising we are used to, the aesthetic qualities of each place become more visible: the symmetry of a square or boulevard, the harmony of a facade, the beauty of an empty beach. A document of an extraordinary and challenging period, Cities of Silence also offers us the visual space to imagine a better future.

Beauty amid the suffering and struggle:
unique lockdown impressions from more than 60 cities

World-renowned sites and monuments as never seen them before

A photographic record of an extraordinary period in history
